

HOOVER INTENDS

undertake a part in securing the pace of the world. The question of American adherence to the court is not yet before the Senate, but Mr. Hoover has declared that "at a convenient time" he will re-submit it on the basis of the Root-Hurst formula.

All Presidents For It
Mr. Hoover pointed out that American adherence had been recommended by "every one of our Presidents or State" every one of our Secretaries of State since its inception, which was in 1920. It came into being as a part of the League of Nations.

Both Harding and Coolidge recommended it. After a tempestuous battle in the Senate, American adherence was finally voted several years ago and only with the addition of five seats. The last of these reservations, the fifth, provided that the court could render no advisory opinion in any case in which the United States had or claimed to have an interest without the express consent of the United States.

This reservation was not acceptable to the League powers, who considered it placed too much restriction upon the scope and authority of the court. Consequently, Elhu Root, former Secretary of State, went to Europe some months ago and in collaboration with Cecil Hurst of England, evolved a compromise on the Senate's fifth reservation.

There the matter rests today, and the question is whether the Senate will accept the Root-Hurst rewriting of the fifth reservation.

Hoover Claims 84 Votes
It requires two-thirds of the Senate to ratify the United States into the world. President Hoover recently was reported to have told his confidants that he had 84 votes for the court.

Independent surveys and polls of the Senate, however, do not confirm this estimate of the situation. Since the original vote of adherence, three years ago, a number of senators who voted for it have changed their ground. Others have retired.

When Senator Deneen was defeated last week it marked the first time a senator who voted for the court has been defeated for re-election.

Mr. Hoover made a deep impression on the Senate for whatever else it is, he is a politically sensitive man. A year ago on the floor, Senator Deneen of Washington, declared that Hoover was "a martyr to the world."

In the impending campaign for the office of the political situation, Mr. Hoover is will not re-submit the issue to the Senate until after the November election. The regular session that meets in December will be replete with "lame ducks", (senators serving out their terms after defeat) and their chances are considered better in such a Senate than in one which is already nervous over the outlook for re-election.

Postpone Baseball Meeting to Wednesday

A mix-up in plans resulted in such a poor turnout for the meeting of the local baseball club called for the meeting in the Recreation Room last evening that the meeting was postponed until Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock. At that time all club directors and team members are asked to be present to complete organization plans for the complete season.

Lynch, Young Radio Announcer, Is Dead

NEW YORK, April 15, (INS.)—Lynch, 23, nationally known announcer for the National Broadcasting Company, died suddenly Monday, following an appendicitis operation at the Prospect Heights Hospital, Brooklyn. Lynch, who was one of the youngest

Are You Flexible .. Elastic .. Alive?

Is your body machine like a finely tempered steel spring, or like a lump of cast iron? There is power in elasticity. There is abundant life in flexibility. Death stalks near when you grow stale and stiff and stagnant. When you quit bending, that is the beginning of the end, if you are only sixteen. Exercise, then, has much to do with healthy joints and muscles, just as use is good for any machine. But exercise is not enough for the body, just as use is not enough for any other machine.

A trained mechanic must occasionally inspect and adjust even the simplest device. An osteopathic physician must look over the body machine at intervals and adjust the joints which may not move just right even though exercise is kept up.

Think of your body at least once a day. Think of it constructively—in a healthy way. Think of it as elastic, flexible, healthy—and think of osteopathy.

Never Had a Good Appetite
"I was very nervous and weak and never had a good appetite. Almost every day I would have to lie down. My doctor used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and so did other women. I often wondered if it would help me but I determined to try it. After the first bottle I felt better, so I kept on. I have already taken five bottles and feel as strong as ever."—Jane Witck, 263 Laurel Street, Perth Amboy, N. J.

Let the CHILDREN have a voice in selecting new furnishings for your home

Older boys and girls, in particular, will feel a closer tie with their home if their opinions are consulted when you buy new furnishings.

They like to entertain friends of their own age in a home that measures up to present-day standards. And they like to have a real part in selecting things for their own rooms.

So by all means bring them along when you visit our store. Whether you're in the market for something definite or "just looking around"—you'll be more than welcome. And more than repaid by your visit!
